

Democrats Rule in Chicago But Local Women Find Mamie Eisenhower's Bangs Attractive

In sweltering Chicago strong-throated orators are holding sway at the Democratic National convention. But in Pottstown the trend is different. It may be the heat or it may be the feminine affinity for a fad, but Pottstown area women are finding the coiffure of Mamie Eisenhower, wife of the Republican presidential nominee, cool and attractive. Mrs. Eisenhower's bangs have the fresh look of long skirts after World War II. Women, who are usually quick to adopt the style of a public figure, also have an eye for practical changes. To many women Mamie's bangs mean more than a new wardrobe.

Truman Quiet On His Choice For Nominee

(More Convention News on Pages 5, 10, 14 and 17)

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 23 (AP) — A threat of a great schism hung cloud-like over the Democratic National convention tonight as the word sped through the big hall that President Truman, apparently changing signals, had decided for the moment at least, to keep hands off the contest for a presidential nominee.

In that contest it still looked like Gov. Adlai Stevenson against the field.

Stevenson Confers With Truman Aide

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Governor Adlai E. Stevenson had a long conference with a Truman cabinet member today—but neither disclosed whether the President had reserved a seat on the Governor's bandwagon.

The Illinois Governor talked for two hours and 15 minutes with Oscar Chapman, secretary of the interior who is regarded as Truman's emissary to the Democratic National convention.

The parley raised a number of questions. Did Truman give his blessing to Stevenson for the party's presidential nomination? Did Stevenson definitely make up his mind to accept the nomination by a convention that seems to be getting ready to offer it to him?

These questions—and they were the big questions of the day—went unanswered.

Labor Delegates Are Divided on President Choice

STEVENSON HAS said he does not want the top place on the national ticket, but he has not said he would turn it down.

Newsmen went into a brief huddle with Stevenson and Chapman when the parley ended.

The governor acknowledged they had talked "about the convention."

Chapman was asked if he had brought a special message from Truman.

Cheer Up — All This Will Return

Muster your strength, sweat-stained Pottstonians! The mildewing weather of the past dozen days is doomed to run its course. Remember the good old Winter time when the snow blows around your ankles and the car gets stuck in the slush? These happy days will be with us come Winter, 1952. One of the most refreshing Winters delighted Pottstown in 1947. That's when icicles (top photo) hung like cold spears from every spout. Scenes from the frigid Winter of '47 bring back cool memories. A clockwise view of (beginning at the right) flashbacks show a woman tackling a man's job with a snow shovel, a motorist wheeling down a country road with snow above his roof, Santa Claus gleaming at the thought of running his sleigh on real snow, workmen clearing snow from a street and a young lady discovering Christmas skis are a bit rough on snow pants.

Weed Violators Start Cutting

Two of the property owners charged Monday morning with violating the borough weed ordinance have taken steps to clear their property of the unsightly and unsanitary growths. It was reported yesterday.

Justice of the Peace Richard H. Cadmus, of the Seventh Ward, said that Mrs. Hazel E. Sotter, of 15 South Rohland street, and Mrs. Eva Swoyer, of Toppen, have informed him that they intended to go ahead with the cutting of weeds immediately.

Mrs. Sotter reported that

Emmanuel Church Members Enjoy Picnic As Rain Obligingly Holds off—as Usual

There's just no getting around it: teen-agers diving into Sunnybrook those who plan the Emmanuel Pool's cold water.

Wednesday, the church and Sunday school's annual picnic must have a direct line to the Master Weatherman above.

They won't admit it, but how else could the affair have commenced yesterday for the 21st time in as many years without being postponed?

The races and contests in which they competed were scheduled separately for the Nursery, Beginner,

Primary and Junior departments and the Sunday school and for the tufts.

All the children in the Nursery and Beginner departments,

1 to 3 and 4 and 5-year-olds respectively, were given "grab bags" containing toys after their games. There were no individual winners in their bean

bag game, peanut scramble, lollipop race and the numerous other games the youngsters played.

Probably pleased most by the weather was the Rev. Dr. Luther A. Krouse, of the American Federation of Musicians, congratulating his local pastor, who caused the attendance to drop from an expected 1200 to on its golden anniversary of existence.

The local began 50 years ago with about 35 members and today it has a total membership of 250.

The Pottstown local of the musicians union intends to celebrate its golden anniversary on Oct. 12 with the children, enjoyed the picnic immensely.

The picnic was the second here for the Celinskis and Moerds, who said that before coming to the Assunta Lodge, Keyser reported.

Inquiry Begins Into Air Crash

A six-man board of inquiry began investigating yesterday the cause of the mid-air collision between two National Guard F-51 Mustang fighters over the Hopewell area Tuesday.

The board appointed by Brig. Gen. E. Holstead, commander of the 22d Fighter Wing of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island National Guard, inspected the wreckage at the densely wooded crash site 2½ miles northeast of Hopewell Lake, and received statements from the two pilots involved in the collision.

They are First Lieut. James E. Romanowicz of Athol, Mass., and Mrs. Adolph Moerd and their Lieut. Col. James J. Stefanik, of Westfield, Mass., both of whom had escaped injury in the accident.

Romanowicz bailed out after the planes touched wings in a training mission, and Stefanik brought his Mustang back to General Spaatz Field, Reading.

Both pilots returned to the air

yesterday on further training missions after being placed under observation at the field infirmary.

Their unit returns to New England tomorrow afternoon after a two-week Summer encampment at the Reading base.

The investigation report is not expected to be ready for release until the fighter wing has returned to its Massachusetts headquarters.

SEN. KEFAUVER SEES SUPPORT

Tenn. Senator Asserts 'People Back Home' Will Fire Up Delegates

CHICAGO, July 23.—Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee tonight counseled on the "people back home" to fire up Democratic convention delegates in favor of his nomination for president.

He said he believes they will "let their delegates know how they feel."

The boom to draft Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, he told a news conference, "has passed its peak."

Kefauver made the assertion shortly after spending two hours in a huddle with advisers and floor leaders.

THE MEETING was held immediately after his appearance at the convention touched off a 22-minute demonstration which reflected to die upon his departure.

His backers from Tennessee, California, Wyoming, Oregon, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Puerto Rico, Idaho and other States continued to whoop it up, with the Senator's 81-year old father, Robert Cook Kefauver of Madisonville, Tenn., taking the bows.

The outbreak of cheering interrupted convention proceedings and drew criticism of Texas Gov. Allan Shivers.

Shivers told reporters the Tennessean violated the rules of courtesy by appearing in the hall. Kefauver did not take his place on the floor which he is entitled to as a delegate.

Instead he went to a box seat usually occupied by members of his family.

THE SENATORS said the demonstration came as a surprise to him. He said he and his father wanted only to watch the proceedings for about an hour and left to facilitate the convention business.

When he learned of Shivers' reaction, he said: "I'm sorry the Governor of Texas got mad because some of my good friends wanted to give me a hand. I was pleased with it."

Kefauver claimed that within 24 hours he has picked up new support and "all of the delegates pledged to me are standing pat." Some additional votes, he went on, will come to him from Alabama "despite tremendous pressure." He added that Florida is counted upon to provide new secondary support.

A new meeting between Kefauver and Averell Harriman, mutual security director, and Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., of New York did not come off. Kefauver said he has no definite plans at this time for another face-to-face get together, such as they had last night.

Members of their respective staffs, he said, are expected to meet from time to time to discuss platform issues.

But the Senator, in response to questions, said no agreement has been reached on a president-vice president slate. There has been considerable talk among Kefauver supporters that a ticket headed by Kefauver might well carry young Roosevelt in the No. 2 place.

Kefauver also said he found a growing resentment "over the effort of a few political bosses to dictate to this convention and draft an unwilling candidate to run." The candidate he was talking about was Stevenson.

Judge E. A. Forrest Clarifies New Law On Permissible Fees

By Staff Correspondent

NORRISTOWN, July 23.—It took an opinion from Judge E. Arnold Forrest today to clarify the amount of costs a justice of the peace may impose in summary convictions in Montgomery County.

Ever since the State Legislature passed a law which gives a few of the minor judiciary the right to assess higher costs in some cases, there has been a difference of opinion as to whom it affects.

The case decided today by Judge Forrest resulted from an appeal taken by William J. Bowers and Homer B. Angstadt Jr., two Reading motorists.

They disputed the right of Justice of the Peace Frank M. Evans, of Linfield, to assess them $5 each in costs, plus $10 fines for violations of the State Motor Code.

IN HIS decision, Judge Forrest placed the costs of the appeals on the county and directed that Evans should collect only $3.50 in costs in addition to the fines. Cost of the appeals amounted to $60.50.

Bowers was arrested by Jeffersonville State Trooper Raymond J. Beninato for allegedly driving 60 miles an hour in a 50 mile zone in Limerick township Jan. 30.

A similar action was brought against Angstadt by State Policeman John J. Flannery for an infraction in Limerick township on Feb. 11.

Evans assessed each defendant $10 plus $5 costs. He claimed he was entitled to the higher costs under a fee bill approved by Gov. John S. Fine Jan. 7.

In appealing Evans' decision to the higher court, the defendants contended that the new fee bill was enacted while Evans was in office and therefore nullified him from accepting the increase as the constitution provides that "No law shall extend the term of any public officer or increase or diminish his salary or emoluments after his election or appointment."

IN RULING that the two men were justified in their stand, Judge Forrest said:

"The only question before us is whether the fee bill of 1947, which allowed costs of $3.50, or the fee bill of 1952, which allowed costs of $5, should be applicable. There would be no question in the matter if the justice of the peace were elected or appointed after Jan. 7, 1952. This was not the case."

He directed that Bowers and Angstadt were to pay the fines and costs of $3.50 instead of $5 and costs of the appeal were to be placed on the county.

Church Picnic Has Something for Everyone

EMMANUEL PICNIC —

United States they never had participated in such a merry affair.

The Celinskis, Moerd and Keps families were brought here about 1½ years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Levengood, 224 Rosedale drive and Parker Graw, Pottstown RD 3, brought the Theilis here.

In addition to all the prizes that were handed out, the picnickers were given free ice cream and ice as they crowded around a numerous wooden beach-tables for individual family suppers and each youngster was presented a red and white "beamie" to wear.

As the day waned and Alton Peterman Harry Burden and Dr. Paul Z. Hoffman finished leading the Young Adults players were "ringers" recruited 500 persons in a community sing from Seibold's team because the and a vaudeville show a Young Adults team didn't have clown, magician, magic chicks, a enough men juggler, and accordianist a dancer. As the heat didn't bother the youngsters enjoying themselves on the stage of the park ballroom, during the day on the ponies, in the jeeps and on the park's swings and sliding board, neither did it perturb the intrepid few who square danced after the vaudeville show to the music of Willis Meyers and his Bar X Ranch Boys and the calling of "Bill" Morrell.

And when the square dancers abandoned the floor, those who prefer slower and cooler ballroom dancing were given the floor.

Mary Meritz got a rise out of one group of picnickers earlier when she won a prize by guessing the exact number of candy balls in a jar—20.

"She should have gotten it right," someone said. "She's the parish's secretary and takes care of our finances."

Below are the contests and races of the various divisions and their winners:

Junior department (9-10 and 11): newspaper race, 3 years—Harold Curry and Barbara Travis; 10—Barry Bickel and Barbara Bartman, and 11—Andrew Celinski and Alma Otter; Clothes hanging race (three sections) Melinda Lindauer over to Moyer and Dr. Krouse with a joking offer to bring his fire trucks up to hose the picnickers down and cool them off.

The Young Adults class softball team could have used a bit of that cooling water a few hours before when, as one spectator put it, "they were so hot they licked Howard 'Sox' Seibold's team to 6."

The little boy was taken from the services by his father and Dr. Arthur F. Mann, Pottstown physician, was summoned.

Dr. Mann advised the boy's immediate removal to the Children's hospital.

The boy was admitted to the hospital at midnight, Tuesday, and put under an oxygen tent. His condition was serious.

Early today he was reported to have been rallying after almost a full day in the oxygen tent.

Delegates of 3 States Are Allowed Seats

Voting Status Left in Doubt

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 23 (P)—Virginia, South Carolina, and Louisiana delegates were allowed to remain seated in the Democratic National convention today at a tumultuous session that left their future status as voting delegates in doubt.

The confusion arose immediately after the convention had voted overwhelmingly to set a 52-vote anti-Truman delegation from Texas as recommended by the Credentials committee.

There was no immediate sign of a floor fight over another contest—that involving the 18-vote Mississippi delegation.

But the case of Virginia, South Carolina, and Louisiana was a puzzler for the delegates.

BUT SEN. Blair Moody of Michigan, chairman of the Convention Rules committee, said he understood all three of the holdout States were in the process of filing the required loyalty pledges. This would end all the confusion and seat the three delegations.

The three States refused to sign loyalty pledges binding them to do their best to get the party's nominees for president and vice-president on the ballot in their States in the coming election.

In a compromise gesture to the Southerners the rule was changed to provide that no one had to sign if the pledge would be against State law or State party rules.

It was not immediately clear whether the compromise could not be invoked by the three States or just what their status remained in doubt.

National Chairman Frank E. McKinney said late today there is "no possibility" of compromising a fight over permitting the three delegations to vote in the convention.

McKinney told reporters:

"Unless the delegations sign this pledge, in my personal opinion they will not be eligible to vote."

"Any delegation that will not abide by the majority decisions of the convention has no business being here."

McKinney said it will be up to House Speakers Sam Rayburn of Texas, the permanent chairman, to rule on whether delegations which have not signed the pledge can vote. He said Rayburn's ruling could be appealed to the floor of the convention.

Associate Prodded By John L. Lewis To Nominate Barkley

CHICAGO, July 23 (P)—John L. Lewis, in a typically tart telegram, today prodded an associate in the Kentucky delegation to nominate Alben W. Barkley for the Democratic presidential nomination despite the Veep's Monday night withdrawal.

The chances appeared slim that the delegation would comply.

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, asked:

"Why does the Kentucky delegation stand around with their hands in their pockets while a couple of political dirty deniers like Harrison and Reuther, who are misrepresenting the sentiments of labor, mess up Vice President Alben W. Barkley?"

"Why cannot the able Kentucky delegation in the convention nominate Barkley so that the people may express their will and the common interests he served?"

THE MEN Lewis dubbed "political dirty deniers" are Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers and vice president of the CIO, and George M. Harrison, a member of the AFL Executive committee.

They were among the union labor group which told Barkley on Monday that because of his age they could not support him. Barkley's formal withdrawal followed, in the form of a statement saying he had asked his home Kentucky delegation not to put his name in nomination.

Lewis' telegram was addressed to Sam Caddy, a Mine Workers' district president.

Ready to Nominate Stevenson

Gov. Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, if plans mapped by the Indiana delegation don't go away, will put the name of the reluctant Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois before the Democratic National convention no later than second on the roll call of states. And with this much revealed, the Hoosier chief executive doffed his hat and went back to working on his nominating speech in his hotel in Chicago.

Civil Rights Truce Okayed by Committee

The bulky document now moves for hours on copies of each plank, out to convention hall where party of the long platform as it was leaders hoped the somewhat sur-OK'd by the 108-member committee.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, one of the first to push formal approval by the full platform committee after a steaming eight-hour closed door session was a major victory for compromisers among both Southern and Northern wings of the party.

The same issue caused a party shattering convention floor battle who voted against the civil rights plank in the committee, but he

Married For 50 Years; Couple Plan Celebration

By MARY JANE FEGELY
(Mercury Society Editor)

Fifty years ago today a young man of 20 rushed home from work at 6 o'clock to hurriedly dress for his wedding at 8 o'clock the same night.

He made it on time, and today Mr. and Mrs. J. Blaine Burns, Fruitville, are observing their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Burns, the former Miss Ida May Laughner, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jared Laughner, West Moreland county, Latrobe, still remembers when she and her husband had their first date.

"IT WAS Feb. 14 and we of a series of graduating shelves went on a sleigh ride," she with tiny, intricately carved pillars said with a nod of her head, bars added to give body to the "Four horses pulled the piece. The couple met when Mr. Burns, Mrs. Burns' hundreds of knick-knacks, most of which were employed as a carpenter, worked knobs, with his future wife's older brother, China, quickly told visitors of her hobby. She also sews and —

Firemen to Try To Put Out Fire At Dump Today

The Empire Hook and Ladder company poured a steady stream of water on a persistent, smouldering fire at the borough dump yesterday from 10 a. m. until 9:30 p. m. and will return to the scene this morning.

This is the second day a borough fire department has tried to extinguish the smoking refuse.

On Tuesday, the Good Will Fire company doused the dump for two hours in the early afternoon and returned to the scene later that night to train hoses on it for five more hours.

The Good Wills left it soaked with water about 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night, but yesterday morning it broke out again.

Richard E. Lindauer, fire chief, reported the fire is not yet underground and that it will be put out by the two hose lines that the Empire company is using.

The Empire's pumper is pumping water from the Schuylkill river to put out the fire.

Chapman was asked if Stevenson had given him his views about the nomination.

"I didn't have to," Stevenson cut in.

THE CONFERENCE was held in a seven room apartment on the 17th floor of an apartment building at 1448 Lake Shore drive.

It is the home of Edward McDougal, a friend of Stevenson's. Ernest Ives, brother-in-law of the Governor who was in the apartment most of the time, told reporters no calls were made to Washington as far as he knew.

The Governor explained his meeting with Chapman this way: "Oscar called late last night. I had not seen him in a long time and asked him to join us for breakfast (at the McDougal apartment) today."

"Asked what they had talked about, Stevenson replied jestingly: "Mostly about the population of the Illinois river."

New Hope in U. S. Patent for Hay Fever - Sinus

New York, N. Y., Relief, never before been possible. In Hay Fever and Sinus congestion, has been obtained with a new, discovered drug called E.D.D. Complex.

This new drug, now released to the public under the name of Ha-Sin, was clinically tested on a large group of people by doctors associated with one of New York's leading Hospitals.

This group suffered from all the usual miseries of Hay Fever, Sinus congestion—clogged up swollen nasal passages, sneezing, tearing eyes, runny nose.

In every case the relief obtained was beyond the fondest hope of the sufferers. And it was faster, longer-lasting relief.

The demand for Ha-Sin naturally has been tremendous but, Sun Ray Drug Stores have a limited supply in stock. So don't suffer a day longer; get HA-SIN before the supply is exhausted. Remember only HA-SIN contains the newly discovered patented E.D.D. Complex (Pat. 2,481,046).

IT RAINED a trace in Douglassville, but it didn't rain in Pottstown. The legend of St. Swithin has been blasted as thoroughly as the square earth theory.

It rained St. Swithin's day, July 15, and the legend calls for rain 40 consecutive days thereafter. A shower sprinkled the area on July 16, but the following day it was as dry as a desert bone. After rain from July 18 through July 21, it failed to rain yesterday.

'World's Fastest Woman' Wins New Flying Honors

When Jacqueline Auriol goes to Washington soon to receive the Harmon medal for flying achievement, America will be honoring a woman who has refused to let the palace she lives in keep her from the work she loves. For the daughter-in-law of the president of the French Republic, "Fastest Woman in the World" may seem an unlikely title. But Jacqueline, who set a new speed record last year, is equally proud of another distinction.

She is the only woman test pilot in France, and (by necessity) the earliest riser at the Elysee Palace, the French White House.

According to her husband, Paul, the president's only son and private secretary. "My wife gets up at six o'clock every morning to rush off to the testing field where she works."

The palace commissar gets home about nine in the evening, just in time for a romp with her two sons, Jean Paul, 10, and Jean Claude, 12, who are her greatest admirers, for she already has taught them both to fly.

FRENCH GIRLS write her many letters every day asking how they can follow her in flying career, and somehow she finds time to answer every letter personally. Her greatest dream is a trained corps of women fliers who could do their part in time of war.

At 33, Jacqueline Auriol ("Jacky" to her family and friends, "Madame Paul" to the Palace staff) is a slender chestnut-blonde, whose wide grin and attractive tanned face barely betray the scores of plastic surgery operations which followed a nearly fatal crash three years ago.

She has little time or inclination for interviews, but the visitors who has an appointment with "Madame Paul" is promptly received in an antique-filled salon by a gracious hostess in the latest Paris fashions, with a tray and glasses by her side. She learned a little English in America (where she had 22 of her plastic operations and learned to fly helicopters), but doesn't trust it for interviews. Her husband is to help if necessary.

"My Saturdays really should be free," says the President's pretty daughter in law, "but I usually spend them giving lessons to the young ground crewmen who have been working for me all the week.

Then in my spare time I have to smash and she spent a year and a half recovering.

There are two versions of her "SERIOUSLY, I GET a great first words on regaining control of letters every day from scions in a hospital. One has girls who want to fly. I answer her asking, 'Will I be able to fly, every one of them myself, and try again?' The other story says she to get them in touch with the Light demanded, 'Get Claque!' (a lead Aviator and Sports Club, which I am plastic surgeon) and then 'Will I be able to fly again?'

She claims that during the last, when the younger Madame war France did not have enough Auriol flew a 'Vampire' at 510 miles per hour to set a women's record, and hopes that next time women she wrested the "Fastest woman" may be ready to serve. Her husband is title away from another Jacqueline puts in:

Jacqueline Cochran of America.

"It's not a question of forming a women's flying corps immediate, for now we have more, when Miss Cochran visited France, male pilots than planes. But training recently, the two Jacqueline met, taking a long time, and the to chat in a polite and friendly women can be getting ready."

Jacqueline admits candidly that "I have heard she wants to win the first started flying because she the title back," says the French found life in the Elysee Palace Jacqueline. "That's only natural dull, and the more I flew, the But she didn't mention it to me."

JACQUELINE AURIOL

Quality Is Standard In Most Brands of Latex-Filled Mattress

The latex-filled mattress is gaining in popularity and many and varied are the comments about this comparatively new type of mattress filling.

But what about brand names? Isn't all latex the same? These are often asked questions. Yes, the quality of the latex mattress cores is pretty standard, with little variation in quality, but with this proviso—that the article be purchased from a reliable house.

There are two different types of latex mattresses—one has core holes on both sides, and the other has core holes on only one side, and a smooth surface on the other. Either of these types is good—it is merely a matter of personal preference. However, here are some questions that one might ask a retail salesman in connection with a latex mattress.

THE FIRST question concerns the weight of the ticking. The answer is that at least six-ounce ticking is desirable. Is the ticking secured to the mattress core? It should be secured to prevent slipping.

Is it necessary to ask if a specially built boxspring is needed? The answer is yes, and here's why.

The average latex mattress is four and a half inches deep and so tall that it begins to droop at the edges. The metamorphosis of "Madame Paul" from social butterfly to boxspring to bring it up to normal height. More important, however, over an after-dinner chat with the French ace, Commander Ray, is to be seen with a latex mat-monde Guillaume. He taught both fliers to fly, gave wire coils for the extra president's special permission—in fact, instructed Jacqueline in stunting.

But whatever the filling, the homemaker should examine the mattress carefully and check for herself the things she can see.

1947 was taking bows beside the president on an official tour of West Africa, was the star attraction of a public air exhibition two years later. Newspaper pictures of the time show Madame Auriol, first lady of France, looking up at her barrel-rolling daughter-in-law with a faintly pained and puzzled expression.

Three days later Paris heard that Jacqueline Auriol was dead. In fact, she had crashed into the Seine with instructor Guillaume and a crewman. Her face was smashed, and she spent a year and a half recovering.

There are two versions of her "SERIOUSLY, I GET a great first words on regaining control of letters every day from scions in a hospital. One has girls who want to fly. I answer her asking, 'Will I be able to fly, every one of them myself, and try again?' The other story says she to get them in touch with the Light demanded, 'Get Claque!' For Bright, Windy Days

Proof that sedate old England, too, can come up with some zany ideas is shown by Mrs. Ned Rosser of Henley, England. Her petal lace hat is full of openings, in fact is nothing more than a frame edged with lace, which will prevent losing the hat in all but cyclone winds. And the anti-glare glasses are mirror-fronted.

EISENHOWER'S LIFE IN PICTURES:

THE PRESIDENT listened while General of the Army Eisenhower did the briefing during a White House conference late in 1951. Mr. Truman received Eisenhower's report on the needs of the Allied Forces in Europe, which he was organizing under the North Atlantic Pact. (Courtesy, King Features Syndicate)

His RISE into upper policy levels came rapidly from one star rank, which Eisenhower held in 1941. By 1943, with four stars on his shoulders, he was with President Franklin D. Roosevelt on Sicily when the Chief Executive decorated General Mark Clark.

GENERALs of the Army, Eisenhower and MacArthur met in Japan in 1946, where Eisenhower visited as U. S. Chief of Staff. Their last previous meeting had been in the Philippines in 1939. At that time Eisenhower, only a lieutenant colonel, was MacArthur's aide.

Duff said the conferees placed particular emphasis on a need for continuing the National Citizens for Eisenhower committee, and that the General had authorized preparing breakfast. Later he carried a big pot of coffee into the yard in front of the cabin, situated high in the Rockies on the western slope of the Continental divide.

"Come on you guys, come over here and get it," the General called to the newsmen.

One of them shot back, as the General laughed, that this was the "first time I have ever been served by a five star K.P."

After breakfast, Eisenhower proudly displayed six oil paintings he has completed since arriving at the cattle ranch of his old friend.

THE QUALITY of the paintings—four landscapes, a portrait of Nielsen, and a copy of an Indian girl's head—brought expressions of surprise from the General's visitors.

Eisenhower, obviously pleased by the reaction, said he thought good one.

"Pretty good," Nielsen claimed. "It's damn good."

The general said he has done no listening on the radio to the Democratic National convention in Chicago where his opponent in the presidential race will be nominated later this week.

"We've been too busy for anything like that," Eisenhower grinned. "You can see what I've been doing with my time—just look at these paintings."

Eisenhower's cooking won as much praise as his painting did.

The nominee asked newsmen not to put any political questions to him saying there would be time for that when he returns to his Denver headquarters, probably next week.

The victory was Lemon's 10th the Boston Red Sox walloped the plate against Dobson and Chuck Stobbs, including four pinch-hitters. Dobson took his seventh loss against nine wins.

He didn't allow an earned run 8.21 in Comiskey Park today, until the ninth inning when Phil Rizzuto led off with a homer—his first of the season.

Al Rosen put the Indians ahead, 3-2, in the last of the fifth with a two-run homer, his 18th of the season. This cost Tom Gorman, the Yankees' best-expected rookie right-hander, his first major league defeat. He won his first two decisions.

Gorman was shelled from the mound in the seventh as the Indians bashed four runs on three hits and four walks.

A LADY in Wichita loved goldfish so dearly that she kept the tub in her bathroom filled to the brim with them. "But what do you do with the goldfish when you want to take a bath?" asked a friend. "When I bathe," the lady explained, "I simply blind-fold them."

A one-armed man happened into Greco's barber shop and demanded a shave. A young barber just out of school drew blood in four places, and tried to cover his confusion by asking, "Haven't I shaved you somewhere before?" "I should say no," said the customer firmly. "I lost my arm in a saw-mill."

Sleeping With Your Eyes Open?

You cannot sleep with your eyes open because to be asleep involves losing control of most of the functions of the body. When we sleep the brain sleeps also. If it is not completely asleep, we are restless. There is only one exception—some businessmen are asleep with their eyes wide open when they fail to concentrate their advertising in The Pottstown Mercury and it's 90,000 daily readers. Valley Forge Army Hospital to Hold Organization Day

Between 2500 and 3000 Valley Forge Army Hospital personnel and their families and guests are expected to attend the second annual Organization Day festivities at the hospital tomorrow afternoon.

Adults, children and patients will participate in special games and contests beginning at noon. The program will include music, entertainment, refreshments and an evening dinner of chicken-in-the-rough.

Organization Day is established for all Army units by official regulations, permitting each unit to select an annual day on which its personnel can participate in an outing.

Preparations for the event are under a committee headed by Major Martin A. Verzi, chief of the welfare division.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of such contests as a three-legged race, a tug-of-war, a fat man's race, a pie eating contest, a wheelbarrow race, a balloon-blowing contest, a clothes-hanging contest, a sack relay, a baby-feeding contest and dodge ball.

Lewis Serves Notice Of Contract Ending

PITTSBURGH, July 23 (P)—A spokesman for Western Pennsylvania coal operators said today he has been informed that John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, has served notice the UMW is terminating its soft coal agreement in 60 days.

The spokesman, who declined to be identified by name, said Lewis served the notice on Harry Moses, head of the Bituminous Coal Operators association, in Washington yesterday.

Operators here have as yet received no confirmation of the notice.

The spokesman said the expiration of the 60-day period would fall on Sept. 20 but since that date is a Saturday, its effective date would be Monday, Sept. 22.

In Washington, Lewis sent word through an aide that he could neither confirm or deny the report.

On the industry side, neither Moses nor Joseph Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association, was immediately available in Washington for comment.

Heat Causes Cancellation Of Association's Meeting

The second successive meeting of the Pottstown chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was called off last night because of the intensive hot weather.

An earlier session to be canceled because of the heat, was three weeks ago during another heat wave that struck Pottstown in the latter part of June.

Charles Prince, spokesman for the group, said the next meeting is scheduled for Aug. 6, at which time there will be a mass initiation of new members into the organization.

NAMED TO FORM CABINET

Sen. Johnston Is Taken Ill on Convention Floor

CHICAGO, July 23 (P)—Sen. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina was taken ill on the floor at the Democratic National convention today and was sent to a hospital in an ambulance.

Sen. Burnet R. Maybank, who was with him, said he did not know the nature of the attack but that Johnston seemed to be in much pain. Johnston is 55 years old.

A nurse at the auditorium first aid station said Johnston suffered a kidney attack. She called him a "very sick man."

Blame for Most Accidents Put on Drivers

Drivers—Wise Up!

To the Editor: Monday's Mercury had more accident stories in it than I've seen in your paper for many weeks.

What interested me was the way so many of the drivers couldn't understand how the accident happened.

They told police their car just went out of control as it rounded a curve, or the steering went wrong, or something.

Now, I'm no mechanic, but I know some mechanics in big Pottstown garages, and they tell me that by far the biggest majority of accidents are a result of driver carelessness, nothing else.

And included in driver carelessness is drunken driving.

The trouble is, a lot of drunken driving can't be proved. The driver is hurt, maybe in shock or knocked out, and by the time he comes around, the effects of the alcohol have worn off.

The doctors and nurses may suspect, or even know, the man is drunk, but they're too busy patching him up to do anything about it.

I don't care how safe Detroit makes its cars. Until the drivers wise up, there are going to be more and more bad accidents.

Democratic Hopefuls Try For Support Of Truman

By RAY TUCKER

CHICAGO, July 23—Politicians are politicians.

Although neither startling nor original, that observation is provoked by the 17 Democratic presidential candidates' direct bids for the convention favor of President Truman, scheduled to arrive here today and remain through the final balloting.

It is an amazing spectacle, with certain vulgar aspects. Truman is one of the most unpopular presidents in many years, personally and politically. Two Democratic Congresses have refused to enact any of his major "reform" proposals. They have also defied him by cutting down his appropriation request for national defense and foreign aid.

A Supreme Court packed by Rooseveltian appointees recently repudiated his theory of "inherent powers" in the steel seizure. By refusing to run again, he has virtually relinquished his party sovereignty.

And yet, the 17 ambitious gentlemen at Chicago—each of them like amorous swains on a soft summer evening, alongside lonely Lake Michigan—

TRUMANCRATS. Most of the potential nominees, of course, are "Trumanists," believing in his domestic and foreign programs. His pre-convention warning against abandonment of major tenets of the party's 20-year program led them to renew their feudal pledges of fealty.

But at least four of the headline hopefuls have fought and angered the man in the White House. The total would be five, if the cos-Stevenson of Illinois were included.

Senator Kerr of Oklahoma, although rather regular in his legislative behavior has drawn a vicious and denunciatory veto from the White House. Truman described his natural gas bill as a rape of city consumers. The multimillionaire Oklahoma gas-and-oil magnate has equivocated on civil rights to gain southern support if Russell of Georgia stumbles.

Nor has Kerr ever convinced an Oklahoma political jury that he supported Al Smith in 1928. Truman did. Still, strange as it may seem, Truman likes Kerr.

Senator Kefauver of Tennessee cannot hope for a Truman nod, though he wants it. His only expectation was that the boss would stay "strictly neutral."

Kefauver's manager, Gael Sullivan has aggravated the hard-boiled pol's prejudice against the coonskinned, crime crusader with his angry charges of bribes and deals aimed at his hero. And Truman is proud to be labeled a "pol."

Stevenson, almost overnight, has become a part-time statesrighter, although his stand on civil equality legislation suits neither Truman nor the Dixie bloc. He was the President's first favorite, and still has the support of many Administration friends.

DERELICTION: But it is the apparent dereliction of "Dick" Russell of Georgia which accounts for the "politicians are politicians" convention comment.

The tolerant Georgian and Truman have been good friends, which cannot be said of relations between the president and other "unconstructed rebels"—Byrd, Byrnes, Shivers, for instance. But Russell has been the South's floor general and strategist in major battles with the White House over civil rights and other questions. Until a few days ago, he had been the visible symbol of the anti-Truman movement within the party and convention.

Now, besides asking publicly for a presidential pat on his candidacy, the extremely able Georgian declares for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act—he voted for the original measure and to override the Truman veto.

He had not wavered in that stand before Chicago.

★ HEAT—Don't get too upset about the heat wave. Man couldn't live without heat. Practically everything we see and touch is the product of heat. Indeed, man's progress on the road of civilization, says the encyclopedia, has been marked by epochs in his mastery over heat. Scientists regard man's discovery and use of fire as one of the earliest steps forward in his evolution from a primitive savage. Whether man learned the art of fire-making from some accident of nature, such as fire caused in a forest by a lightning stroke, or whether he discovered it himself by such a fortunate action as robbing two sticks of dry wood together, we shall probably never know. Like the invention of the wheel, the discovery of fire is lost in the dim shades of prehistory. Much that we learn of early man, we learn from those artifacts which are found buried in the earth, and these are usually things that he fashioned with heat, such as pottery, metal weapons, and metal ornaments, which he made from material obtained by roasting ores...

HIGHEST TEMPERATURE ever recorded under standard conditions was taken September 13, 1922, in northwestern Libya, about 25 miles south of Tripoli. The thermometer then scaled to 136.1 degrees. Hottest day in Pottstown on official record was August 7, 1918, when the temperature soared to 105 degrees. The day before, August 6, 1918, it was 101 degrees. Warmest year on record here was 1931, when the average was 58.1 degrees. July is the hottest month. Since there are only nine days left, you may get some relief out of that thought!

★ SAILOR—Among the almost 3500 G. S. Naval academy and Naval reserve officer training students taking part in the first of the Navy's three summer training cruises is Naval Academy Midshipman Donald J. Rothenberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer R. Rothenberger, 1021 Schuylkill road, aboard the Destroyer USS Meredith. The Task Force departed Norfolk June 9 and will return Aug. 5. During the cruise, the midshipmen will visit Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and two European ports where tours have been arranged to visit points of interest.

WORK—Good thing you girls don't have to hand knit your pretty nylon stockings. If you worked at the speed of a stitch a second, it would take you six weeks to turn out one stocking. . . You may, one of these days, be wearing peanuts. A new fabric has been developed in England from the goobers. It costs one-sixth the price of wool and suits made from it before the war are still in use. It can be mixed with any other kind of fiber in making cloth. Odd part of it is that after the oil and the fiber material are extracted from the peanuts, what's left of them makes cattle feed.

★ MORE WORK—Maybe you wouldn't be so hot if you could eliminate some of this work. It's figured now the average human lifts and eats, two and three-quarters pounds of food a day, and drinks four and a half pounds of water. The human also breathes 30 pounds of air a day. . . Maybe this one will help you when we have electrical storms like the other night. When the power goes off, you worry about your home freezer. Well, keep the freezer door closed as much as possible and, if dry ice is available, pack 25 to 30 pounds of it on your food packages. Wear gloves when handling dry ice. Break the stuff into small chunks and distribute it over your food tops. Fruits that show signs of softening should be made into jams and jellies. It isn't advisable to re-freeze foods that thawed out.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—Composer Ernest Bloch, and Preston Ward, of major league baseball fame, should be eating birthday cakes today.

IT HAPPENED TODAY—1785—Simon Bolivar, South American liberator; born: Venezuelan general and patriot. 1802—Alexander Dumas, the elder, French novelist, born. 1847—Utah celebrates Pioneer day, commemorating day Brigham Young, Mormon leader, reached site of Salt Lake City. 1945—Progressive party nominated Henry Wallace and Glen H. WATCH YOUR LANGUAGE—ERADICATE—(6-RAD-1-KATE)—verb transitive: to pluck up by the roots; hence, to evaporate. Origin: Latin—Eradicatus, past participle of Eradicare, to eradicate, from E. out, plus radix, radicis, root.

TEMPO PICTURE: A woman's fax

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D. IT IS good advice not to neglect any wound, burn, or infection that refuses to heal for a long time, as it may be a warning of cancer.

Often, however, a common type of bacteria causes stubborn infections that may take months and years to heal. These bacteria, known as pseudomonas aeruginosa, normally live in the intestines and, as a rule, cause no damage there. They are not killed by most of the antibiotic drugs.

They usually do not cause infections unless the body resistance is extremely low, or unless antibiotics have killed off their natural rivals in the body. Then they may begin to cause trouble. It has been found that many stubborn kidney conditions may be due to an infection with this type of organism.

Recently, a new antibiotic drug, known as polymyxin B sulfate, has been employed in treating these stubborn infections. The drug may be applied directly to the infection, or injected in a muscle, in carefully regulated doses.

One group of 35 patients with infections that were very slow to heal, was treated with polymyxin B sulfate. Every one of these patients responded well, and none of them suffered any severe distress for the treatments.

Cases of severe kidney infections and chronic ear and eye infections were treated in this way with good results.

One slight difficulty with this treatment is that it causes excessive protein to be given off in the urine. This usually does not last long after treatment is stopped. Also, there may be some pain over the area where the drug is injected, and some dizziness and weakness.

Thus, a new antibiotic drug has been perfected for pseudomonas aeruginosa infections which usually do not respond to other drugs.

But Democrats Face
Trouble Holding Down
Enthusiastic Delegates

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, July 23 (UPI)—The Democratic national convention today adopted a rule that struck a blow at one of the most time-honored of political customs:

Demonstrations for presidential candidates were limited to 20 minutes.

By contrast, the demonstrations for Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the Republican convention lasted twice that long.

Sen. Blair Moody of Michigan, who headed the rules committee, didn't say how they would turn off the yowling, whistling and screaming that always comes when the name of a candidate is placed in nomination.

That question will be solved tomorrow, when the nominations actually come up.

THE CONVENTION also adopted a rule that would limit the demonstrators to those who actually are delegates or alternates.

In the past the doors have been thrown open to admit hurrah boys and girls whose sole purpose is calculated bedlam.

"This means," Moody said, "that we won't have any hired professional delegates coming in here, as they did in the other convention, carrying first the banner of one candidate and then the banner of another."

If the rule is strictly adhered to, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee will be the demonstration champ.

He walked into the hall today precisely as the rule was in the process of being adopted—and got a 22 minute ovation.

FELLOW DELIVERED a load of vegetable matter to the Democratic convention today. Appropriately, for a political powwow, it turned out to be corn.

Several stalks of it were shocked around the Iowa standard. It had been ordered by Elmer G. Carlson of Audubon, Iowa, the national corn-husking champion.

The corn was a long way from husking time, though, since it had just begun to tassel.

Noting how fresh the corn was, a nosy reporter went around and checked up. Did it really come from Iowa?

"Must be from right here in Illinois," said a lady delegate. "Our corn grows twice that high."

THE CONVENTION so far, has been surprisingly devoid of the gadgets and knickknacks so beloved by politicians. There has been little of such things as the "I like Taft" straw hats and the "I'm a Taft fan" paper fans that were featured in the Republican convention.

There has been less waving of banners during speeches, too, al-national convention in New York though that should pick up when City scheduled for Sept. 1.

In event the letter carriers fail to choose a delegate, Walter Adams, secretary for the group, stated that a proxy vote at the convention would be given to Warmkessel.

What's happened to that great old Chamber of Commerce spirit, gentlemen, ladies?

MOST FULLY of the convention give-aways: a small seat pad, advertising a company which peddles such things. After sitting on a wooden folding chair for six straight hours, that's a gift anyone can appreciate.

THE FIRST of the baldheads to use television makeup was Calvin Rawlings of Salt Lake City, chair-

Pennsylvania Delegates Are Still Waiting
For Formal Vote on Preferred Candidates

CHICAGO, July 23 (UPI)—Some 20 Pennsylvania delegates to the they had asked former U. S. Sen. Democratic convention were won Francis J. Myers when he planned during today just when they will to call a showdown caucus, and get around to a formal vote on were told by Myers it would be presidential candidates.

With the convention in its third day, the 70-group vote hasn't met. SEVERAL, INCLUDING District since the proceedings got underway. Attorney Richardson Dilworth, ap-A session Sunday night on the eve peered anxious to get their votes of the convention's opening re-on record. Dilworth said the de-sulted in a rollcall that showed 23 layed action "looks like manana" votes preferring Gov. Adlai Stevenson (tomorrow) stuff" but added he son and 14½ for Sen. Estes. Estes has not requested that a meeting be called.

This was only an expression of the delegates' personal choices, and was greeted by one and all to be not binding. Backers of both Stevenson and Kefauver have claimed gains since then, with members of another group of at least seven votes still holding steadily in favor of President Truman's renomination.

Stevenson forces, indicated he felt law in the present dispute, there was no hurry about taking First guess, of course—and it another Pennsylvania rollcall vote, was widely circulated by several but said it would come well in ad-delegates — was that McDonald's vance of the first vote. He said he view pointed to CIO President Stevenson movement, and confi-presidential contest.

McDonald denied that today, telling reporter he does not know what Murray's view is, nor when it will be expressed.

The hardest-worked guessing game within the delegation to-day still centered around the unexpected arrival last night of David J. McDonald, international secretary treasurer of the CIO-United Steelworkers.

McDonald popped into the con-vention during the waning hours of the long night session, and dis-closed he is "personally support-ing" President Truman or Averell Harriman.

A sign in the lobby lists it as Stevenson because of a speech the headquarters of "Pennsylvanians Illinois Governor made criticizing for Kefauver, Samuel G. Neff. Federal seizure of the steel in-dustry and urging that President Myers, floor leader of the draft Truman invoke the Taft-Hartley 200 circulating after McDonald's thing.

He added a number of employees at the plant have returned to work as the employment picture is improv-able. Plaza Local 2226, United Steel-ing, President Clarence Matz was in charge.

A Quick Look at Your Neighbor

By MARTIN SALDITCH

JOHN W. HEALY, 616 HIGH STREET, is a man who says, "I don't like prominence," but he hasn't been very successful in avoiding it during his life.

An active man at the age of 55, he is director of the National Bank of Pottstown, president of the Pottstown Rapid Transit company, and treasurer of Varicraft Works, incorporated.

"I have never tried to push myself forward," says the executive. "I suppose I just depended on perseverance."

Healy was born in Douglassville in January, 1877. He doesn't like to reveal the exact date because "people will send me cards and gifts they can't afford."

He attended the old John Arms private school in Pottstown, The Hill school, and the Eastman Business College in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., then went to work as a bookkeeper for his father and brother, who operated a coal and lumber business, D. Healy and Son, in Kenilworth.

In 1887 the company's title was changed to J. A. Healy and Brother, when John became a partner following the retirement of his father. In the years that followed, an office was opened on High street, and he traveled extensively as a wholesale lumber salesman.

In 1900, the business office was moved to Philadelphia, because of the much greater home building in that locality. A year later, Healy gave up the lumber business to become a director of the National Iron Bank of Pottstown, becoming vice president in 1910. He helped arrange the recent merger between that bank and the National Bank of Pottstown.

In 1913, he became president of the Pottstown Passenger Railway company, the first trolley line in the area, which had been organized in 1892. When High street was paved in 1931, the trolley tracks were torn up, thus putting the firm out of business. It became a holding company for the present Pottstown Rapid Transit company, which Healy heads.

He also has been serving as treasurer of the Varicraft Works, incorporated, paint and varnish manufacturers, for the past 32 years.

Healy helped organize Pottstown Lodge 814, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, and is the oldest living member in years and service of the organization. He was recently made a life-time member.

He married Gertrude Missimer in 1901, and several years later Healy built the home at 616 High street in which the couple now reside. They raised three daughters, who are now married—Isabel, wife of Howard V. Evans, a teacher at The Hill school; Mary, wife of Jack McKean, of New Haven, Conn.; and Eleanor, wife of Henry Adikes, of Great Neck, N. Y.

Despite his age, Healy visits his offices frequently, using his own company bus for transportation. He has been forced to use a cane for the past year after tripping on a rug and breaking his right hip bone.

"The doctors say it is healed," Healy remarked, "but I know it isn't. I got to nurse it along."

He describes himself as having a conservative attitude in business, explaining: "I think people who are conservative succeed in acquiring more things in life. If you're too liberal, you spend money too fast, and don't have anything in the end."

Healy adds, "I'm an optimist about Pottstown's future. Who wouldn't be? Look at the industries we have here." Declining retirement, he expects to continue contributing to the borough's development "until I drop off."

MRS. GLADYS M. STRICKER, 57 WEST SIXTH STREET, the first English war bride to arrive in the Pottstown area, feels quite at home now after seven years as an American housewife.

"I've gotten so used to Pottstown that I would like to stay here for the rest of my life," says Mrs. Stricker. The people in town are very friendly."

Born on March 19, 1920, in Boxford, England, she moved to the nearby town of Newberry at an early age, graduating from what is called public school at 14.

She went to work, at a children's home in Wallingford, and remained there for five years until World War II began in Sept., 1939.

Mrs. Stricker returned to Newberry and took a war plant job at the direction of the government, which had conscripted all male and female citizens.

The town luckily avoided many air raids. "Some stray planes would come over once in awhile," she recalls, "but that was all."

Mrs. Stricker encountered the most air attacks when she and her husband went to London on their honeymoon. They met at the plant in 1943, when Pfc. Theodore H. Stricker Jr. was one of a group of American GIs assigned to aid England's industries. He is now a maintenance man at the Spicer Manufacturing Division of the Dana corporation.

The couple were married in Feb., 1944, and their first child, Margaret, was born in March of the following year. Theodore returned to the U. S. in November, 1945, and his wife and child followed on the Queen Mary in February, 1946.

The first thing that impressed her in Pottstown was the shops. "I never saw so many goods in my life," she says. "It was heaven compared to the scarcity in England. It took a lot of red-tape to get anything. Here, all you had to do was walk in and pay for it."

During her first four years in Pottstown, Gladys resided with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Eva Stricker, of 43 King street. Theodore and Margaret, in 1947, and in 1949 the four-member family moved to their present home at 57 West Sixth street.

Perhaps the hardest obstacle to adjustment was the difference of food between the two countries. "The taste of the food here seemed different," says Mrs. Stricker, "and it took me a while to get used to it. My husband didn't go for the English dishes I prepared."

Mrs. Stricker caught on quickly to the American monetary system. "It is much easier than keeping track of the pounds, shillings and pence in England."

Comparing the character traits of both countries, Mrs. Stricker likes the friendliness of Americans rather than the shy quality of the British.

"Gosh, I must admit the English people are brought up to be more polite and well-mannered," she adds. "When I first came over I used to say thank-you for every little thing, and people used to laugh at me. But I'm trying to raise my own children that way."

Through her husband, Mrs. Stricker has developed a fondness for baseball ("it's a nice, clean game") and when she isn't taking care of the children or the house, likes to read books, knit, watch television and see American movies. "British films are so dry," she says.

Mrs. Stricker remains faithful, however, to the strong English custom. Disdaining coffee, she declares, "I still like my cup of tea."

MAN BITTEN BY LION

MEYERSDALE, July 23.—A man who said he loves animals lost his thumb and suffered arm scratches when he tried to pet a carnival lion last night.

Strapping a pair of toy six-gons and wearing a pair of spurs on her boots, the waitress approached the Simpletons to take their order.

UNFAMILIAR with the dishes

featured on the menu, Simon asked the girl for a suggestion. "Why don't you try some of that desert chicken—it's very good," she prompted.

The "desert chicken" was good and after a satisfying dinner that left Sophie a little puzzled, she asked the waitress. "That was very funny-looking chicken—it looked more like sausage."

Quite casually the girl replied, "Oh, we just call it chicken, ma'am—that stuff

you ate was rattlesnake meat."

Vacationing
With
Mercury Readers

Most sections of the country are famous for some special type of food, and so it is with the West, too.

Many tourists like to taste these regional delicacies at times not even knowing what their ingredients are since many of these fancy foods are sold under beguiling names.

And so we find the Simpletons surveying a bill of fare at a roadside restaurant somewhere in the Mojave desert. In keeping with western atmosphere the hash house was built in the shape of a huge sombrero landscaped with cactus and decorated inside to make any cowboy feel at home.

State Trooper Shoots
Suspected Car Thief

EAST STROUDSBURG, July 23.—A 26-year-old Hazleton man was shot to death by a State trooper today as he fled from a car that had been reported stolen a short time earlier.

The shooting victim was identified by State police as Raymond C. Noss, who was pronounced dead at General hospital here.

State police Pvt. Peter Walsh said that he received a radio report to be on the lookout for a yellow car reported by Stanley Van Vliet, Buck Hill Falls, as having been stolen in East Stroudsburg while Van Vliet was in a hotel here.

Walsh spotted the car on Route 209 and gave chase. Five miles east of East Stroudsburg, the car stopped and the driver got out to enter a taproom. The State policeman ordered the man to stop six times and fired one shot as he fled.

Doctors at the hospital said that the bullet entered Noss' back and emerged through his chest.
